DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-40, 76-79, and 82 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Eppstein (6,527,716). Eppstein discloses a method of delivering permeant substances through the skin of an animal comprising forming multiple delivery openings in the skin, the majority of the openings having a mean opening depth between 1-10,000 microns, wherein 75% of the openings have depth between 50-70 microns, wherein the delivery openings have a range of depths falling within one standard deviation of about 50-90 microns, wherein the openings can be formed by a heated probe element (see at least col.6, lines 6-67) and by putting a positive pressure force on the microporator by manually pressing down of the microporator or can formed by application of a vacuum, wherein the delivery of substances through the skin results is as effective as a subcutaneous injection, wherein the delivery openings have a distribution that results in bell-shaped curve., and wherein the substances that can be delivered include insulin and hyromorphone.

The applied reference has a common inventor/assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 11/01/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to the applicant's argument that Eppstein does not disclose a method of ablating at least one delivery opening having a mean opening depth of between 40-90 microns, the examiner respectfully disagrees. Eppstein discloses using a heat source to ablate micropores (col. 6, lines 6-67) which can be made to a depth anywhere between 1-10,000 microns (see at least col. 8, lines 15-25). It is the examiner's position that if the user of the method of Eppstein decided to make a delivery opening between 40-90 microns, the mean opening depth would be between 40-90 microns.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
